

True2Life Now Supports NAVY Fleet Training with NATO

True2Life, the UK's largest provider of Web3D realtime simulations, are proud to announce its latest capability – Navy Training Online (NATO).

True2Life has developed technology to enable Naval Fleets worldwide to deliver intuitive customised training and familiarisation online using True2Life Web3D realtime simulations. The True2Life NATO system allows trainees to explore, inquire, and even try various functions in a variety of locations on the vessel in question. Trainees can also use the system to familiarise themselves with other vessels prior to being seconded, saving time and increasing onboard safety.

True2Life's NATO Information Model can encompass multiple complex systems, but owing to its intelligent user interface, individual systems can be easily isolated. For example, weapons engineers may isolate and view sensors and weapons systems, mechanical engineers may isolate plant room systems, whilst fire crews may use the system to simulate fire safety mission rehearsals across the entire vessel. Training levels and needs are tailored to suit particular vessel and situation recruitments.
